ABSTRACT

This collection includes over 6,300 reels of microfilm of unique manuscript and archival holdings from both national and foreign repositories. Most of the material is historical, largely for Mexico from the colonial period to the early twentieth century. Three repositories account for the major portion of the holdings: the National Archives of the United States, the Archivo General de la Nacion de Mexico, and the Public Record Office of Great Britain. The Archivo General de Indias (Seville, Spain) is also represented, but not in significant amounts. The checklist is arranged according to four broad geographic areas: Mexico, Central America, the Caribbean, and South America. Individual entries are alphabetical by author or title if there is no author, and includes information on the volumes and reels of microfilm, the original repository identification, and the Benson collection classification number. Only positive microfilm from United States repositories is available on interlibrary loan, and reproduction of any of the microfilm requires prior consent of the original repository. (Author/RAA)

INTRODUCTION

As of August 31, 1979, the Nettie Lee Benson Latin American Collection (BLAC) holds over 6300 reels of microfilm of unique manuscript and archival holdings from both national and foreign repositories. Three repositories account for the major portion of the holdings: the National Archives of the United States, the Archivo General de la Nación de México, and the Public Record Office of Great Britain. The Archivo General de Indias (Seville, Spain) is also represented but not in significant amounts; however, a more intensive acquisition program has been recently initiated in order to expand the BLAC's holdings from this repository. (See repository comparisons in Table 1.)

Most of the material is historical, largely for Mexico from the colonial period through the 19th and early 20th centuries. (See regional comparisons in Table 2.) Language of the documents is normally that native to the author.

The checklist is arranged according to four broad geographic areas: Mexico, Central America, the Caribbean, and South America, the latter three areas being subdivided alphabetically by name of country or other area designation. With the exception of records relating solely to Central America or to the British West Indies as regions, entries covering more than two countries are entered under the category "GENERAL," which precedes the geographic listings. For Central America and the British West Indies, see the respective sections "Central America" and "Caribbean" (outlined in the Table of Contents).

Individual entries are alphabetical by author (personal or corporate) or by title if there is no author. Author designations are the same as those used in the BLAC card catalog, except for uncataloged microfilm, for which the entry has not been officially established. There are some circumstances in which the repository is the corporate author; e.g., the microfilm consists of selected documents from the repository.

Each entry is in the following format:

(1) Author
(2) Title
(3) volumes on microfilm, if applicable
(4) Name, or abbreviation, of repository holding the original / Identification symbol, if any, used by the repository
(5) number of reels (6) BLAC classification number

Titles used either appear on the microfilm or have been devised by the compiler. Geographic locations used in author lines may vary with the name as stated in the title, either as a different name or as a modernized spelling. Dates may refer only to the earliest and latest ones noted on the documents and may not, therefore, denote comprehensive coverage for the time spans indicated. The name of the repository is omitted at the repository designation location (line 4 in the entry format) when it is undetermined or is a part of the author-title entry. In the case of records in the National Archives of the United States, the identification symbol used is the microcopy number in the National Archives Microfilm Publications series. Unless otherwise indicated, the microfilm is 35-millimeter positive. Microfilm represented in the card catalog has a classification number; otherwise, it is "uncataloged." The classification number on the catalog card is always preceded by the designation "FILM."

Only positive microfilm from United States' repositories may be borrowed on interlibrary loan. Reproduction of any of the microfilm requires the prior consent of the repository holding the original.
